SPECIAL NOTICES. SPECIAL NOTICES. A WEEK OF PRAYER—THE BOARD OF Directors of the Central Union Mission call upon the friends of the work to earnestly pray that a door may be opened where the crowds of perishing ones who are attracted to the mission may be accommodated. Hundreds are turned away weekly for lack of room, and the police have warned the directors against allowing the hail to be crowded as heretofore.
Let this first week in February be a week of supplication and prayer that God may give the city a permanent home of sufficient capacity for its mission work.
Special services will be held at the main hall and branches all the week. The city pastors are also requested to make this matter a subject of prayer in their church services.

As a Building Association the "Perpetual" is without a rival in the showing it has made and the financial success it has achieved in proportion to the business done. This splendid showing has not been gained at the expense of those who have taken advances from the Association. It will take less money to repay an advance of $1,000 in this Association than in any other in the city of Washington. So the prosperity of the Association has not been built up by oppressing the borrowers with large percentages of interest on the advances taken. The secret of our splendid showing is entirely owing to economy in management, in keeping down the expenses, thus reserving the profits for distribution to the members. We have several hundred shares of our first series maturing in the month of March and succeeding months. These shares will be redeemed with a profit of 12 per cent per annum. On shares withdrawn before maturity we pay 5 per cent per annum on special payments of $100 or more, interest payable monthly if desired. We advance $150 on each share, payment $2 monthly; $1,050 on 7 shares, payment $14 monthly, running 100 months. This period of 100 months can be shortened by paying larger monthly dues; thus $15 monthly to 91 months; $16 to 83 months, and so on. Our methods of business are extremely liberal and elastic, making it convenient for everybody to deal with us. For instance: No fines are enforced for non-payment of dues, except from those who have borrowed money; from those we expect prompt payments. Shares can be taken at any time and no back dues required. We are issuing hunlreds of new shares every month. Our next meeting on WEDNESDAY EVENING, February 5, at 615 7th street.

Mr. Platt said that he had intended to ask the Senate to take up the bill for the organization of the territory of Oklahoma, inasmuch as the condition of affairs there seemed to render early action necessary. The relations of par-ties there were very much strained, and it was believed that riot and bloodshed might occur at any moment. But if the Senator from Massachusetts thought that there should be an executive session now so as to devote the day to executive business he would give notice that he would call up the Oklahoma bill tomorrow. The Senate this afternoon confirmed the nomination of Wm. H. Taft of Ohio to be solicitor general vice O. W. Chapman, deceased. Confirmation was also announced of the nomination of John M. That the democrats did not consider themselves yet vanquished, and that they proposed to throw every obstacle in the way of the transaction of business until some rules were adopted for the government of the House, was shown by their demand for the reading of yesshown by their demand for the reading of yesterday's journal in full. A CENTURY OF JUSTICE. Celebrating in New York the Centenary of the Founding of the Supreme Court

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Dimmed considerably by the sad events of the past few days, the celebration of the centennial of the federal judiciary was this morning inaugurated. The weather seemed designed to cast a further gloom upon the affair, for a disagreeable rain set in shortly after 90'clock, which grew heavier as the hour for the exercises approached. All preparations had been perfected for the event, however. At all the principal hotels early calls were made upon the distinguished guests from all over the Union and every attention was shown them by the committee in charge. Carriages rolled up to the doors and the guests were escorted to the Metropolitan opera house, where they gathered in the waiting rooms and lobbies, awaiting the formation of the proces-

MR. CLEVELANDS'S INTRODUCTION. At 10:30, when Mr. Cleveland took his place as president of the assemblage, there was loud and prolonged cheering, and it was severa minutes before the honorable ex-President could be heard. Mr. Cleveland then in a clear | Mark Herr, Formerly Deputy Sergeantvoice delivered his introductory address, clos-ing with the following brilliant peroration:

"Our fathers sacrificed much to be free Above all things they desired freedom to be absolutely secured to themselves and their posterity. And yet with all their enthusiasm for that sentiment they were willing to refer to the tribunal which they devised all questions arising under their newly formed Constitution affecting the freedom and the protection and safety of the citizen. Though bitter experience had taught them that the instrumentalities of government might trespass upon freedom, and though they had learned in a hard school the cost of the struggle to wrest liberty from the grasp of power, they refused, in the solemn work they had in hand, to take counsel of undue fear or distracting perturbation, and they calmly and deliberately established as a function of their government a check upon unauthorized freedom and a restraint upon dangerous liberty.

Though bitter experience the fatal quarrel occurred over Naughton's acts in appropriating some of their funds. Herr was well known on the coast and in Washington. He was a son-in-law of Surveyor General John A. Benson and had strong political backing during the Cleveland administration. Herr was vice president of the loan association of their government a check upon unauthorized freedom and a restraint upon dangerous liberty. ous liberty. CONTRIBUTED FRACTIONS.

contemplation of the history of that august tribunal organized one hundred years ago; as the lives and services of those who in the past have presided over its councils are re-hearsed to us; as our love and veneration for our fellow-countrymen who now fill its high and sacred places are quickened, and as we are reminded of the manner in which our national court has at all times illustrated the strength and beneficence of free institutions, let us be glad in the possession of this rich heritage of American citizenship and gratefully appreciate the wisdom and patriotism of those who gas to us the Supreme Court of the United States Morgan Dix offered prayer, invoking a divine blessing on the vast assemblage and their do-ings throughout the meeting. He spoke feel-ingly of the sad bereavements in the families of Secretaries Blaine and Tracy and moved many of the audience to tears by the touching manner in which he described the tragic deaths of Mrs. and Miss Tracy. Dr. Dix, in conclusion prayed for the President and cabinet and hope that the absence of the magistrate and officials from their presence was only temporary. Judge Wm. H. Arnoux followed in an address of "welcome to the court." Mr. Arnoux was warmly applauded during his remarks and on his re-tiring was greeted with vociferous applause. The next speaker was Mr. Wm. rising to $3% and Reading % to $0%. These ciation and ready obedience to the Constitution was essential to that dual government by which alone free institutions can be maintained in a country so widely extended as ours. This Constitution, which has been productive of such vast results, was the outgrowth of institutions and doctrines inherited from our ancestors and applied under the new conditions of our country. The possibility of a dissolution of the Union of the states was never considered by its framers and in all its provision, as Justice Chase aptly remarked: "Looks to an indestructible Union composed of indestructible states." Even the late civil war could not shake its stability. The judicial department established under this Constitution is co-extensive; it reaches to every judicial question which arises under the Constitution, treaties and laws of the United States.

should be done to relieve the crowded docket, and that speedily. It becomes more and more the duty of the court to firmly enforce every guarantee of the Constitution.

"Sustained by professional and public confidence," Justice Field concluded, "the Supreme Court may hope to still further strengthen the hearts of all in love, admiration and reverence for the Constitution of the United States—the noblest inheritance ever possessed by a free people."

On Mr. Field resuming his seat and after a few selections by the band the Rev. Dr. Talbot W. Chambers of the Collegiate Reformed church delivered the benediction and the immense audience dispersed. The auditorium of

The auditorium of the opera house was gorgeously decorated with bunting of every hue and the national flags were in profusion, while the coats of arms of the forty-two states and the territories covered the coats of the forty-two states and the territories covered the forty-two states and the territories covered the first and second tiers of the spaces between the first and second tiers of boxes. An excellent band also tended to enliven the proceedings. Tonight the banquet will be held at the Lenox lyceum.

NEEDS OF THE COURT. In some cases, the justice said, the court may have made mistakes. The judges would be more than human if this were not so. But they have striven to the utmost of their abilities to be right and perform their functions to the ad-vancement of justice and the good of the coun-vancement of justice and the good of the country. As to the needs of the Supreme Court Justice Field said that it should not be over-borne with work and should have some relief from the immense burden cast upon it. Every suitor, however humble, should be given an opportunity to be heard. Up to the middle of the present century the calendar of the court did not average 140 cases a term; the calendar of the present term exceeds 1,500 Something.

From Wall Street Today. NEW YORK, Feb. 4 .- A feverish and irregular tone accompanied by considerable animation Justice Field, after a tribute to the bar of the state of New York, recalled with pleasure his connection with it prior to his departure for the Pacific coast in 1849. In every age and with every people, he said, there have been celebrations of triumphs in war and of triumphs in peace, but never has there been in any country a celebration like this—to commemorate the establishment of a judicial tribunal as a co-ordinate and permanent part of its government. This celebration had its inspiration in the conviction that this tribunal has materially contributed to the just appreciation and ready obedience to the Constitution of the United States.
